

Where people learn in the primary industries

2020

We have over 19,000 learners at around 6000 different workplaces around the country. At Primary ITO, we pride ourselves on being up driveways, at the end of dirt roads, on the factory floor, online or in the classroom. Whatever it takes to support our learners.

Primary industries are not just in the cities. They are up and down the length of the country. This map shows how many learners are based in each of New Zealand's 74 local council areas, from just a handful in Manukau and the North Shore, to over 1000 in the Selwyn and Invercargill districts.
